

FARMERS DREAM

Sunday, May 23 - Monday, May 24, 2010

A sunset-to-sunrise durational performance by Ernesto Pujol

Men	&	Women	Performers
Michael Handley		Priti Cox
Colin Roe Ledbetter		Carla Duarte
Paul Lindholm		Kate Lindholm
Ernesto Pujol		Aniko Safran (documentarian)

Poetry: Lori Brack

Sounds: Rosi Hayes

Ways of life assign us bodies that vanish with vanishing ways.

ALL-NIGHT PROGRAM

I. Instructions to Adults

Please be silent, but feel free to come & go all night. Or stay as long as you can. Sit on the floor. Move around following the actions. Bring a sleeping bag and camp out. Sleep with us.

II. Instructions to Children

Please be quiet, and do not get too close to the performers because they are going to use water and flour. And you may slip or get stained. They are also going to break some things that could cut you. But don't be scared.

III. Instructions for All

Feel free not only to watch the performance, but also to bring a book and read it. Bring some paper to write or draw. Feel free to close your eyes, listen to the poetry and songs; meditate.

A production of the Salina Art Center Warehouse Artist in Residence Program, and The Field School, New York. Our thanks to the Good Works Foundation, The Land Institute, and the many generous Kansas lenders of the table & tools. Please support the efforts of the Friends of the River Foundation.

Please visit www.DreamingKansas.com for more information.